

Greensboro Public Library's Nonprofit Resource Center

Located at the Glenwood Branch Library
1901 West Florida Street, Greensboro, NC
(336) 297-5000

Patrick Fitzgerald, Nonprofit Resources Coordinator
www.greensborolibrary.org/nonprofit
Patrick.fitzgerald@greensboro-nc.gov

Resources to Support Guilford County's Nonprofits

Books

Our extensive collection of books includes directories, proposal writing guides, board development manuals and marketing strategies. While some books are for library use only, most can be checked out for three weeks with a Greensboro Public Library card.

Magazines & Journals

We have the latest copies of several magazines and journals which provide you current information and news relevant to the nonprofit sector, including the Chronicle of Philanthropy, Grassroots Fundraising, The Nonprofit Times, Foundation News and Commentary.

Software & CD-ROMs

To speed up your search for funders for your projects, we have subscriptions to online databases of private and corporate foundations. In moments you can browse through lists of thousands of potential funders.

Video & Audiotapes

We offer a comprehensive collection of video and audiotapes on topics ranging from fundraising to board development.

Classes and Workshops

In collaboration with the Duke University Certificate Program in Nonprofit Management, we organize over 35 classes and workshops in Greensboro each year. If you work for a nonprofit in Guilford County, you can attend the Duke workshops for half-price, thanks to a grant from the Cemala Foundation. The Nonprofit Resource Center also offers FREE mini-workshops occasionally. Call, email or check the Library calendar for the current workshop schedule.

Foundation Center Cooperating Collection

The Glenwood Library has recently been selected by the national Foundation Center as a "Cooperating Collection Library." That means that we will have the most current resources available on funders, funding trends and other topics important to the nonprofit sector.